

Tri League of Women Voters Kickoff

Background

EdSource, Inc.

For 27 years EdSource has provided impartial, clearly written information to educators, policy makers, the media and the general public about California's important public education policy issues. As an independent not-for-profit organization, its mission is to clarify complex education issues and to promote thoughtful decisions about public school improvement by serving as a credible and respected source of K-12 education information. EdSource does not advocate or lobby. Ed Source offers information to the education community and the public through print publications, an annual forum and a comprehensive website at www.edsource.org.

Mary Perry

As Deputy Director of EdSource, Mary Perry helps with the planning and administration of the organization's annual publication program, website and various special projects. She is the primary author of several publications each year, including the annual EdSource School Finance update. Her past experience includes nine years on the school board in Campbell, California and leadership roles in PTA and a bond election campaign. She joined EdSource in September 1993.
